

Institutional Distinctiveness

The institution aims to create self-reliant lifelong learners. The effective implementation of teaching learning process is evidenced by the various achievements of stake holders in many areas of learning. The teaching methods employed by the faculty is multifarious. It is inclusive of lectures demonstrations, observation methods, analytical and synthetic methods, question and answering methods and problem solving methods. For this the orientation of teachers is done at the very outset of the session by IQAC. Which discusses the issue of teaching and methodology to be adopted and the purpose to be achieved. Experienced faculty members sharing their experiences and innovative ideas are accepted. Going beyond the syllabus is also our aim and therefore teachers are encouraged to take up relevant issues and matters of concern as a subject of their class room discussion. Interdisciplinary interaction is also encouraged and the members of the other faculties are invited to share in their ideas. Healthy group discussions follow the lecture for participative learning . Every post graduate department of College has an association to take up the challenges and to inculcate skills for self-reliance and the stakeholders. These associations also incorporate and ensure community services and dignity of labor in the students so as to create confident, well informed and self-reliant citizens.

The faculty members function in a coordinated manner to provide holistic environment to bring quality and excellence in the process. Large number of students secured positions in the merit list of the university. The participation of students in various activities of community development, environmental conservation, health awareness programs and to inculcate cultural values and heritage. The students are motivated to participate in various gender sensitization and cross cutting issues concerning human rights and ethics. The old students of the college are actively engaged with the alumni association to contribute in the possible ways for the progress of the institution. Societal service and contribution through core ethical values are at the heart of activities to contribute for national development.
