

For research purpose the different areas of biotechnology can be explored by the students such as:

- Molecular biology
- Applied microbiology
- Plant biotechnology
- Medical biotechnology
- Food biotechnology
- Industrial biotechnology
- Environmental biotechnology
- Biochemistry

After the completion of their research they compiled all the documents, their research findings and prepared a result report as per dissertation work done. By taking the assessment faculty tries to improve the student's path towards learning. Assessment increases the quality of the student.

Evaluation of the student's internal project work is done which is mandatory part of the curriculum. It uses methods and measures to judge student learning and understanding of the project for the purpose of grading and reporting. Evaluation of the students is done by the External Examiner appointed by the university. Students gave power point presentations for their project and viva-voce is taken by external examiner. The marks given by the examiner reflects in their result. This internal project work was a starting platform for the students for their future research work. This will guide students for doing PhD and other research projects in future ahead.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

M. Com. 4th Semester

Report on Project Report for Session -2022-23

Out of total registered students in the fourth semester in the semester 2022-23 under the commerce faculty of the college, 44 students appeared in the university semester examination. According to the syllabus, they prepared a mandatory project report on different subjects of diverse fields and presented it to the department.

The selection of the title of the project report is mainly in Commerce and Management, industry, finance management, maintenance, production management studies, sales management studies, insurance and financial-sector cost-benefit analysis and banking schemes such as deposit scheme, loan scheme and economic studies of various economic development schemes by central and state governments. The students select the title according to their interest and data available and accessibility, but the final determination of the subject and title is done by the departmental professors, who are their research directors, and under their supervision and inspection, the report is fully prepared and presented.

The project report is submitted in three (one student copy, one departmental copy and one university copy). Subsequently, the oral examination (viva-voce) of the project report is taken by both the external examiner appointed by the university and the internal examiner as the director and the marks received are sent to the university.

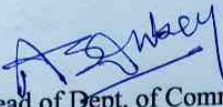

Full autonomy is given to the students for the compilation and survey work of the data for preparing the project report, so that they can collect the relevant data and information and use those in their report under the supervision of the directors and submit the project report as required.

In determining the title of the project report, it is worth mentioning that all the students are sanctioned the titles under different subjects of different fields, so that they can use their own efforts and understanding to prepare the project report as per the objective so that they are made aware of the research techniques and get interest in research work so that in future they can move forward for their own venture, business, startup. Accordingly, the project report is mandatory for every student of the fourth semester for the fulfillment of the compulsory part of the course.

Notable suggestions are given in the form of conclusions in the project report submitted by the students. The departmental teachers discuss them with the students, after which the concerned students are motivated to contact the concerned departments and send their suggestions according to the process, so that in future, if the suggestions are considered appropriate by those departments they can be implemented. Also, by continuing the excellent works and suggestions in the future in the form of research, students can obtain higher degrees in those areas which are helpful in economic development.

Most of the students presented in this session have earned first class marks in the project report, in which the project report submitted by Ku. Shruti Birley, Harsha Tiwari, Nusrat Parveen, Shilpa Biswas, Sachin Dey, Kiran Patel were called excellent by the external examiner.

Introduction

Projects are not black and white, and there are many aspects of them that you should consider. One of them is the type of program you will be following. Also, you should consider the benefits and drawbacks of these programs and determine if an internship or project is really the next best step for you. A college project is a valuable introduction to the working world or means of reintegrating the job market, a college project is by definition a temporary position within a company or organization. Typically, projects are performed during studies as a means of applying theoretical knowledge learned in class. Though college does not fix a maximum or minimum duration, projects can span anywhere from one month to two months. Like regular jobs, college internship or project can be either part-time or full-time position. Student exposure to real life industries is important in chemical engineering curriculum as one aspect of active learning. Student learning should go beyond academics, where they can develop insights, critical minds and obtain practical knowledge as well as theoretical applications. Furthermore, students are able to improve on the cognitive complexity, intrapersonal/interpersonal relationship and practical competence. According to Brown et al., varieties in active learning can provide unanticipated roles for the future engineers, capable of solving challenging engineering problems of the 21st century. Smith et al. (2005) reported that five benchmarks to encourage student engagement in learning are: level of academic challenge, active and collaborative learning, student-faculty interaction, enriching educational experiences and a supportive campus environment.

Advantages

- Gives detail knowledge about particular subject.
- Gives practical knowledge about the subject apart from theoretical knowledge.
- College internships are an invaluable addition to your CV as they show your active engagement and interest in that particular field.
- Opportunity to discover the job market whilst being given clear goals and objectives.
- Opportunities that allow you to gain access to contacts and connections.

Problems

- Difficulties with data collection
- Fear of consequences and misunderstanding of data.
- Concerns are mostly reluctant in sharing data of their concern.
- Fear of concern in leaking of privacy of their concern

Curriculum

According to the course curriculum, projects have been assigned to the students as per their specialization. Like students those who are doing Post Graduate Diploma in Banking they will be assigned project topic, related to banking and finance. In 2022-2023, 09 students have done their project under guidance of their concerned teacher and 01 student was absent. College provide permission letter to all the students who goes to different places for their project. Students get certificate from the institute and their after viva voce is also conducted as per curriculum by external and project report is also checked by external.
